This means that an employee's TRS creditable earnings (including but not limited to vertical and horizontal salary schedule movement, stipends, salary increases and retirement incentives), whether under the contract or otherwise, shall not increase from one school year to the next by more than 6% or otherwise be increased so as to create Board liability for any portion of the retirement annuity or result in any Board-paid penalty to TRS. In no event will the compensation and/or benefit increases exceed the threshold amount which triggers any obligation for the Board to pay additional amounts (in the form of a one-time payment or payments over time) to cover all or part of an employee's retirement annuity or cover any Board-paid penalty to TRS. Notwithstanding any contrary or other provision of this contract, including but not limited to any salary schedules, in the event an employee's TRS creditable earnings would increase by more than 6% in any given year of this contract, that employee shall only receive the maximum increase allowed under this provision. However, any money that is not captured because of this provision will be added to the succeeding year's salary, herein termed "carried over salary", provided that the carry over salary does not create a breach of this provision.
